

I believe it should be simple and convenient for consumers to file complaints against providers in the case of unilateral price increases. My example is the AT&T Broadband service fee I pay for increased 20% because I didn't purchase an additional product from them.